Promotion of women in STEM professions#

Diversity is an integral part of our corporate culture, this is why we are increasingly trying to attract talented women to our company with target-group-specific speeches. Our Women's MINT Award, which promotes women in MINT subjects and professions, is once again open to female MINT students from all over the world for the seventh time. We are partner of FemTec, a career platform to inspiring women to pursue a (management) career in the technical field. This year we were one of 2 dedicated companies offering a innovation workshop. The topic of the project was nothing less than one of our latest mega topics: 5G as an enabler for remote driving - which 30 of the FemTec women decided on. We were also involved in the "Global Digital Women", an international network of women designers in the digital industry, and were represented at the "women&work", the leading European trade fair for women and careers, in order to target specific candidates.
